

Prosumers in the EU Clean Energy Package and future national plans – What is key in 2018 and beyond?

Webinar

18 September 2018

Background and objectives

“PROSEU – Prosumers for the energy transition” is a project funded under the EU Horizon 2020 Programme. It brings together eleven project partners from seven countries and aims at mainstreaming the phenomenon of renewable energy Prosumer initiatives into the European Energy Union.

The Clean Energy Package will provide various opportunities for strengthening Prosumer initiatives across the EU. The laws adopted within the Clean Energy Package, will require adoption of national legislation and development of national policies and measures, including National Energy and Climate Plans (NECPs) and Long Term Strategies (LTS). The inclusion of prosumer-related topics is of great importance to ensure that distributed generation and citizen participation in the energy transition are at the centre of the European Energy Union.

This Webinar will provide general insights into current developments of the European Prosumer legislation. It will also provide guidance on certain national measures that will have to be adopted by Member States based on EU legislation. In particular, it will discuss how Prosumer views and interests could be included and expressed in the NECP and LTS. It is directed at NGOs, Prosumer initiatives as well as national and European policy makers.
